Stewardship

Fearless Stewardship

“...Do not let your hearts be troubled or afraid.” (JOHN 14:27)

Our limited human understanding cannot begin to understand the immense power of God. Instead of trusting in God, we often think we can control every outcome. Do you want to make God laugh? Tell Him your plans. The next time worry, anxiety or fear creeps in, thank God for all He has given you and trust that He has a Stewardship plan for you. Make God your first choice and not your last resort.

Christ Our Light Book Group News

All are welcome to join us May 26 at 7:30 pm to discuss Born A Crime: Stories From A South African Childhood, by Trevor Noah.

We meet via Zoom (contact Tom deWolf for link) and in person in the Parish Center's St John room. Contact: Tom deWolf 856-298-0089 / tjmdewolf@gmail.com

Summary: 'Born a Crime' is the story of a mischievous young boy who grows into a restless young man as he struggles to find himself in a world where he was never supposed to exist. His life began with a criminal act: his birth. Trevor was born to a white Swiss father and a black Xhosa mother at a time when such a union was punishable by five years in prison. It is also the story of that young man's relationship with his fearless, rebellious, and ferently religious mother—his teammate, a woman determined to save her son from the cycle of poverty, violence, and abuse that would ultimately threaten her own life.' (Note: Includes some profanity & adult situations).

Weddings

Please call the Parish Office at 856-667-2440 to schedule. We encourage those who have married outside the Catholic Church to call and discuss options for blessing your marriage as a Sacrament.

Who doesn't like balloons?

We're not talking about Zeppelins or big hot air balloons that can carry you up among the clouds, we're talking about those ordinary everyday balloons that you see at any party or celebration. They're great fun and they enhance any space with brightness and color. They're easily set up and easily taken down. Children love to play with them. Even when they get popped it's no big deal, just find another. Popping balloons can be fun too. So many games to play with balloons. You can also fill balloons with helium and release them to float away into the sky. That's entertaining, beautiful and impressive too. Just good and harmless fun with balloons, right? But wait, what do you do with spent and broken balloons after the party?

Some things to know about balloons:

- Make sure that they are put into the trash; they are not recyclable.
- Animals, birds and fish get sick or choke when they try to eat balloon fragments.
- Small creatures can drown when they get entangled in trailing ribbon or string. It's true of pets, but it's much more of a problem for wild animals; they often die as a result.
- Animals will eat partially inflated balloons, thinking that they're food. A balloon can clog the digestive tract, leading to starvation and likely to eventual death.
- Latex balloons are biodegradable, mylar or foil balloons are not.
- Latex balloons will generally degrade within 6 months but can survive for over 5 years.

Some tips for safeguarding the environment:

- Keep balloons inside if possible.
- If balloons are to go home with children, tie them to their wrist or have an adult carry the balloon.
- Never release a balloon outside. Even with biodegradable balloons, they are a serious risk to wildlife and marine environments.
- When you plan to dispose of the balloons, deflate the balloons before putting them in the garbage.
- Spent balloons should be disposed of in a responsible manner, either in a compost heap where they will have the best conditions in which to biodegrade within a few months, or in landfill waste where they will also break down safely.
- Use natural raffia ribbon because it is compostable, particularly if it has been dyed with natural dyes.

SIXTH SUNDAY OF EASTER

Hope Renewed

Gracious God,
we stand before you with grateful hearts.
This season of Easter renews our hope and inspires the faith we seek to live.
May we be mindful in every moment
that your face shines on us,
and your mercy and compassion

are gifts that you freely offer us.
Inspire us to look for you
in all those who share our journey, and open our eyes to see
the beauty and grace that surround us.
Through Christ our Lord. Amen.

Behold God

Today's readings: Acts 15:1–2, 22–29; Psalm 67:2–3, 5, 6, 8; Revelation 21:10–14, 22–23; John 14:23–29. “O God, let all the nations praise you!” we sing in the refrain of the responsorial psalm. Praising God is one of the ways we pray. As the Easter season wanes, perhaps it is time to reflect on ways to integrate words of praise in our prayer life. In the verses sung from Psalm 67 today, the psalmist acclaims the way God rules his people and guides the nations. Where in your life can you see and acclaim the work of God?

During the fifty days of this Easter season, when we contemplate the joy we receive from God's love, seek to deepen your prayer life. Spending time praying the psalms of the season is one way to do that. Those psalms will help you rest in the knowledge that we are never alone.

Another way to increase your prayer life is to spend time with a phrase from Scripture. For example, bring to prayer the words from the Gospel: “Peace I leave with you; my peace I give to you. Not as the world gives do I give it to you.” Repeat the words and then quietly sit with them, allowing them to penetrate you. Taking time to pray personally and with a community opens up a world where grace, beauty, and love are ever present and, as the late spiritual writer Anthony de Mello, SJ, said, you will find “God beholding you . . . and smiling.”

Spirit of Life and Truth

When Jesus tells his disciples that the Spirit of truth is coming, he offers hope in the face of rejection and persecution. As disciples living in the present age when respect for life and living with integrity are a challenge, we can find hope in the Holy Spirit breathing in and among us in every moment. Today's readings: Acts 16:11–15; Psalm 149:1b–2, 3–4, 5–6a and 9b; John 15:26–16:4a.

Tuesday, May 24

Be Kind

The word kindness is used in reference to God twice in the psalm today. God's kindness is abundant and never-ending. What about the kindness you exhibit? Is it contingent on your mood? Kindness has the ability to heal and strengthen a wounded soul. We need to be willing to search our hearts and find and share the kindness that has been shown to us. Today's readings: Acts 16:22–34; Psalm 138:1–2ab, 2cde–3, 7c–8; John 16:5–11.

Wednesday, May 25

A Guide to Truth

The Spirit reveals the truth that God is all knowing, loving, and merciful. Accepting this truth may mean that we need to change how we live with ourselves and others. The Holy Spirit is available to assist with this challenge. As today's Gospel states, "When the Spirit of truth comes, he will guide you into all truth." Pray for the grace to allow the Holy Spirit to work in and through you so that others come to know the truth. Today's readings: Acts 17:15, 22–18:1; Psalm 148:1–2, 11–12, 13, 14; John 16:12–15.

Thursday, May 26

The Ascension of the Lord

Before Jesus ascends, he tells the apostles that they will receive power when the Holy Spirit comes upon them. But what is that power? St. Paul might answer that query when he speaks to the Ephesians about a Spirit of wisdom and revelation that results in knowledge of Christ. Today's readings: Acts 1:1–11; Psalm 47:2–3, 6–7, 8–9 (6); Hebrews 9:24–28; 10:19–23 or Ephesians 1:17–23; Luke 24:46–53.

Thursday of the Sixth Week of Easter

Patience

"A little while, and you will no longer see me, and again a little while, and you will see me." These words left the disciples in a quandary. We too may be confused by how God is working in the world. Our questions are not always answered, but when we allow God to be involved in our lives, we live into the answers. Prayer and patience will lead to peace. Today's readings: Acts 18:1–8; Psalm 98:1, 2–3ab, 3cd–4; John 16:16–20.

Friday, May 27

Joy Unending

In today's Gospel, we hear that joy is birthed from pain. Jesus tells his disciples that the pain that they experience as followers will give way to joy when they see Christ again. We too can rest in the reassurance that our hearts will rejoice when we are with God. Today's readings: Acts 18:9–18; Psalm 47:2–3, 4–5, 6–7; John 16:20–23.

Saturday, May 28

A Father's Love

Jesus encourages the disciples when he says, "whatever you ask the Father in my name, he will give you." Our relationship with God through Jesus gives us confidence that our prayers will be heard. When you pray this week, do so with the awareness of the Father's love and care, the same love and care Jesus relied on in his ministry. Today's readings: Acts 18:23–28; Psalm 47:2–3, 8–9, 10; John 16:23b–28.
